Relational Work.

Firstly staged: October 8th-9th, 2016. Total surface area of the environment. The Living Art, Spazio Shed, Schio (VI).

A table, two stools, an easel, A4 size paper, wax pastels. In the background, another table with two panels on top of it: on the former there are a vase, some branches and leaves, and 42 letters made of bronze-coloured plastic; on the latter there are a small stove, two beakers, some food colouring, and some eggs.

The project Parole Dentro (WORDS INSIDE) was presented during The Living Art event, as part of a 38-hour performance marathon.

It's a work of art that originates from the reciprocal exchange between artist and spectator, where the lines that define them blur.

In exchange for their time entrusted to the artist, the audience receives a personalized brief and imaginative portrait in words.

Then, if the participant accepts the artist's invitation to take part, he/she will break the barrier and pass by the side of the artist, to creating a work of art in tandem, that both are going to sign. However, the fate of the work of art is already decided: it will soon end up being crumpled or eaten.

In a setting in between a street portraitist and an alchemists laboratory, besides putting the ontology of the artwork to the test, we try to find the added value of human relationships and what it means to Listen.

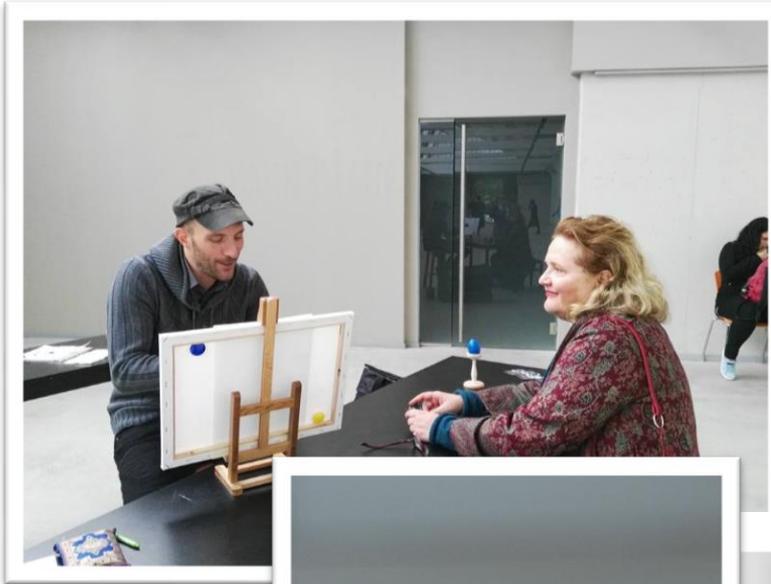

First Phase: A portrait made by words

Second Phase: preparation of shared artwork
